

My Fast Five Fact Book:

Clara Barton

By

Thank you for downloading Bookworm Homeschool's Fast Five Fact Book. I hope you enjoy making this book with your students. We started by learning about our subject through books and videos. I asked my student to select five facts they learned about their subject and write about each one on the provided pages. There is room to draw a small illustration related to the facts on each page. I have included additional lined pages for students who need more space to write, as well as additional blank pages for miscellaneous content. For example, my student chose to make a timeline to show the order in which the facts or events occurred. Once the book is complete, we simply staple it and add it to our book box or notebook. If you like this product and wish to share it, please share the link!

Thank you!

P.S. I've included a few journal pages with writing prompts on the following pages!

Clara was the Angel of the Battlefield, bringing medicine and supplies to doctors and soldiers on the battlefield. What are some other ways she helped?

What do you think of her efforts to help others?
